1. COURSE DESCRIPTION

1.1. Course objectives

The objective is to develop students' knowledge of particularities of different text types and apply this knowledge in writing. Moreover, students will be encouraged to account for their own attitudes in writing and apply different syntagmas in order to produce high-quality texts.

1.2. Course enrolment requirements and entry competences required for the course

No prerequisites

1.3. Expected course learning outcomes

By the end of the course, students will be able to:

- write a concise text in which they will use an appropriate language style and present arguments
- participate in conversations and discussions in which they will use proverbs/idioms and words and expressions typical of everyday language
- differentiate between different types of correspondence and produce complex (personal and business) letters
- writing reports, articles, summaries and reviews of scientific or literary works

1.4. Course content

- exercises in written expression (students are given homework in which they have to apply the theoretical knowledge that they are expected to acquire at lectures)
- reading various magazines, as well as newspaper articles dealing with the following topics: society, politics, culture and sport in German-speaking countries
- topical themes covered in German newspapers and magazines
- analysis of posters, booklets and other materials
